FIVE MINUTES ANTIQUE SCHOOL

Art Pottery

Art pottery refers to pottery made for decorative or artistic purposes, rather than for utilitarian uses. The glory years of Art Pottery are 1870 to 1920 in America... later seen in Germany between the World Wars.

The pottery is made from yellow clay found abundantly through the Mid-west, and the industry centralized in Cincinnati and Zanesville, Ohio. Art Pottery grew in acceptances after the Philadelphia Centennial Expo of 1876 where the public saw Oriental and French art influences.

Art Pottery was made for the emerging middle class. It is not a product for the elite such as fine porcelains and china. It is also a product of its times, reflecting the forms, colors, and styles of each era.

The pottery comes in glossy and matte finishes. Some pieces are artist signed... other pieces are production line and reveal no identity of the maker. A signature adds value. Certain patterns and colors were made in great quantity, while others were issued in limited edition.

Art Pottery comes in a variety of forms from small cabinet pieces to large umbrella stands and jardinière/ pedestals. Figures such as animals, birds, human forms, woodland creatures are sought after.

Famous makers include:

Rookwood	Weller	Roseville	Teco
Dedham	Mecoy	Fulper	Cowan
Hampshire	Gruby	Van Briggle	Owens
North Dakota School of Mines		Marblehead
How to collect:
Select a pottery Weller pottery
Select a pattern"Pine Cone" by Roseville
Select a form or shape baskets, biscuit jar, pillow vases
Select a color Matte green, made by 38 potteries
How to buy:

Seek excellent condition...form...glaze...artist signed...size...rarity...price

BIBLOGRAPHY

Basett, Mark. Roseville Prices.

Atglen, Pa.: Schiffer Publishing Co., 2001.

ISBN 0-7643-1378-9

Ellis, Anita J. Rookwood Pottery

Atglen, Pa.: Schiffer Publishing Co. 1995

ISBN 0-88740-838-9

Also available is a video of Rookwood Production

Evans, Paul. Art Pottery of the United States

New York: Feingold and Lewis Publishing Corp, 1987.

ISBN 0-9619577-0-0

Huxford, Sharron and Bob.

The Collector's Encyclopedia of Weller Pottery

The Collector's Encyclopedia of Roseville Pottery

The Collector's Encyclopedia of McCoy Pottery

Padukah, KY: Collectors Books, 1979 (revised)

ISBN 0-89145-114-5

The Journal. The American Art Pottery Association.

Los Angeles, Calif.

Published six times a year. Membership subscription $54.00

ISSN 1098-8921

www.amaratpot.org